

professional

portfolio

Sunny doll

This is a story about the origin of Teru teru bōzu (sunny doll) in Japan.

Once upon a time, there was a monk who recited sutras so that rainy days would turn into sunny days, so people called him the Sunny Day Monk. One year, when the whole country was raining heavily, the emperor asked him to solve the problem, but the weather didn't clear up after he chanted for many days. The emperor thought he was a liar and executed him, but the weather cleared up the next day after the monk's head was hung under a roof.

One year, there was a torrential downpour over the whole country, and the rain continued for a long time without stopping. So the king asked the "Monk of the Sunny day" to pray for a clear sky for the country.

*The king was so angry that he thought the Monk had deceived him and the nation.
So the emperor ordered, "Cut off his head."*

kwaidan

A series of posters based on four Japanese ghost stories from the film kwaidan (1964) directed by Masaki Kobayashi.

Where's my magic shoe

This picture book is aimed at children aged 10-15.

The story wants to tell children that a person's life can be bound by habits, favourite people and objects, and the fear of an unknown future, and that these feelings together form a comfortable zone. Staying in the comfort zone may not be a bad thing, but one day when prompted by external forces to go out of the familiar can find more different fun, and the direction of development. You can still go back to the old comfortable zone, your efforts are just expanding it, so don't be afraid of that

How to talk with ghost

A collection of postcards of urban legend stories about psychic methods and witchcraft. Contains four stories: the yin and yang pot, the love spell, the pen fairy, and the mirror.

嶗山道士

 vlonicawang

草季換

 vlonicawang

This is a series of black and white stickers based on the songs 'Changing Flowers and Grass' and 'Laoshan Taoist' and the related backstory.

Wang Yaxuan

A simple cartoon was created based on personal illness experience. Introduce some basic content related to diabetes in the form of zine.

Not only these sweet-tasting foods that are loaded with sugar!

In fact

people have misconceptions about diabetes. Both of these people can have diabetes, even though there are many slim-looking people who can get it.

Type 1: The body's immune system starts attacking the cells that produce insulin, and eventually production stops. People with Type 1 diabetes need daily insulin injections. People with Type 1 diabetes need daily insulin injections or an insulin pump.

Type 2: The body may still produce insulin, but the cells resist it. Sometimes the body doesn't make enough insulin. You have a greater chance of developing Type 2 diabetes if you're overweight and have a family history of diabetes.

In fact, these "NORMAL" FOOD also not good for diabetic's condition.

In addition to cooperating with doctors to check and take medicine, doing more exercise to lose weight, drink more water ...

Do exercise

Lower pressure

...adjusting life rhythm and reducing stress can also speed up recovery.

eye test

foot test

JOY

This is an illustration created for the joy-themed art exhibition held at Coburg House

Devoured By Purity

Referencing the narrative of 'Alice in Wonderland', the narrative interweaves reality and fantasy scenes to show the secondary damage of cyber violence on victims of sexual assault.

